SILVERLINE EDITION

True luxury is having the space – and the time – to enjoy it. In an increasingly hectic everyday life in the midst of a pulsing urbanity, a growing number of people create free space. Consciously creating living space with unique precious materials.

Luxury is grounded in simplicity and reserve. Self-assured understatement demonstrates style and individuality.

“Style is the capability to express complicated things simply and not the other way around.”

HAND-SELECTED EXCLUSIVITY

The exclusive boards in the Silverline Edition are carefully hand-selected from especially refined and straight oak. Straight, fine lines result lengthwise from the careful sawing of the boards. Flawless boards of this length are extremely rare, because oak trees grow very slowly and need decades for this format. The characterful sorting process emphasizes the uniqueness of this material – wood – and thus each Silverline floor has its own unique story to tell.

GENEROUS FORMATS

At almost three meters, the impressive length of the Silverline boards is emphasized through special beveling, which run along the entire length of the board. They underscore the exceptionally generous dimensions of a Silverline floor, amplify the natural effect of the spatial architecture, and guide the light in the room.

EXCLUSIVE REFINEMENT

The colours and the surface finishing of the Silverline Edition are just as exceptional as the length of the individual boards. Over the course of time, a very special patina emerges – interesting reflections develop along with a depth that increases with age.

SWISS MADE

Refined, large-format floor are unforgiving when there are flaws. Therefore, each individual board in the Silverline Edition is processed exclusively by our master team in Switzerland. They guarantee the outstanding quality of the Silverline Edition by working with great care. Just drying the wood demands a great deal of experience and patience – drying oak too quickly causes undesired fine cracks, which are found during the sorting process.

THE SILVERLINE MONOGRAM

Every Silverline floor is very carefully manufactured in Switzerland. The exclusive quality is guaranteed with a solid silver mono-gram, which is set in the floor or given to the customer personally.

URBAN VILLA IN ZURICH

Oerlikon, CH

19th- and 20th-century urban villas are just as much a part of Zurich's cityscape as Lake Zurich or the white-and-blue trams. One of these is the Allenmoos villa, in the Allenmoos district of Zurich Oerlikon. In 2012, a couple decided to buy the villa and add a garden pavilion of their own design to the building. Since 2014, this new building now nestles up to the old town wall in the garden, complementing its style in a contemporary fashion. The transitions between the rooms have a fluid design. The continuous Silverline Edition Oak Silver parquet floor by Bauwerk Parkett adds gentle colour highlights. The deep brushed and natural oiled planks with a length of almost three metres subtly emphasise the spaciousness of the new rooms, and connect the new parts of the building with the old. The steps between the new and old parts of the building are made out of smoked, deep brushed and natural oiled Villapark Oak and are reminiscent of a step stool, creating a playful connection between the two areas.

Only reflection on what is essential creates room for true individuality. Through conscientious reduction, every detail gains its meaning.

SINGLE FAMILY HOUSE IN VILLACH

Villach, AT

A family of four created their dream home in Villach, Carinthia. The new building was designed and realised by Hermann Dorn and his architecture firm, Trecolare. Maintaining privacy on the outside and open space in the interior are some of the aspects that the family felt were important in their new home. The architect designed the building as an L-shape that encloses the garden, providing privacy. It is further enhanced by the small number of openings facing the street and a wooden-slat façade cladding that is projected in front of the windows. A two-floor atrium is at the centre of the house's interior, with the rest of the rooms arranged around it. It connects the ground floor to the upper floor, and the interior to the exterior. The side of the atrium facing the garden is fully glazed, and in summer, the living room can be opened out onto the terrace in front of it.

CHALET PUNTSHELLA

Pontresina, CH

The Pontresina village in Engadin is the location of a spacious loft apartment and holiday home for large families. Natural wood plays a key role in the design, deliberately combined with other materials. Every wood type used has its own story and appeal. The dining table is made out of beams salvaged from the previous building. A part of the dilapidated old building was rebuilt. The doors and built-in furniture are made out of local Swiss pine. Parquet was used for the floors: the broad strips of the Silverline Edition in rustic grading 35 provide a neutral base that fits well with the other types of wood. The architect opted for steamed brushed larch as the material for the ceiling. The entire apartment benefits from a well-designed lighting concept and sensual interior design. Indirect light accentuates the height of the room, which reaches up to 4.5 metres. The free-standing fireplace is open on both sides, separating the room and making it cosier. A successful combination of different elements that blends harmoniously with a breath-taking panoramic view of the mountains.
